

PAWSitively Yours... from the Sceptre King

Me doing what I do Best!

My friend Terry brought me a book to look at called Discover Atlantis by Diana Cooper and Shaaron Hutton. It had a page on cats! She said, “OK Sceptre King - I know you already know this, because I see and feel you doing it all the time, but I thought you might like to share this information with your friends.” Terry lives close by and knows I pride myself in energetically helping to look after the neighbourhood. I didn’t read the whole book, but here’s the part about the cats:

“Cats are enlightened and independent beings. They are the one species that came to earth so evolved they had nothing to learn from humans and consequently do not need us. They came from Orion, the great spirit constellation, which is why their energy is so pure. Even today they are highly independent. In the early days all cats were black and very “Egyptian-looking”. Black is, of course, the color of deep mystery and sacred arts. It is the ultimate feminine vibration. A cat went to every home to help maintain a pure energy there. In later days their mission was to try to raise the energy in the house. Felines at this golden time were vegetarian, like all high frequency creatures and allowed themselves to be fed by humans. They did not need claws to catch or kill prey, but they loved to climb trees and had a great affinity with them. At the temples people were employed specifically to look after their needs and they were very much revered. They were used in temples because their psychic ability was so high, so they participated in rituals and ceremonies and added their energies where they were needed.

Healers always had a cat to boost their power. If a crystal arrangement that was being used for healing was slightly out of alignment, the cat would adjust it, making sure the crystals offered the ultimate healing. Cats were always present at deaths. In those days the spirit often needed to be guided, so their cat travelled out of body to accompany them and make sure they did not get lost.

The magi also had cats. Hundreds of years later when the pure ones first had a sense of things going wrong in Atlantis, they sent to Orion for more cats to help hold the light on earth. In pure Atlantis, there were, of course, no entities or dark thought forms, but later in the devolved times cats would watch over their families and protect them from entities. They still do this, trying to guard their owners and the planet.”

You can see why I liked it - especially the crystal part! It’s true! I move the stones all the time in our house. Lucky for me, my mom lets me. A lot of cats get in trouble with their owners for ‘messing things up’ when they are just trying to help! Cats also make great movers and shifters because we can get places you can’t since we are smaller and energetically more agile.

If you consider what the book said, about our energy, then it also makes sense that cats have VERY sensitive feelings. So it’s time again for me to remind you to please not give any kittens as Xmas presents unless you know the person really wants one. There is nothing worse for a cat (or any animal) than being rejected under the Christmas tree. Hey, why not give stones and crystals instead... to your cats too!

I Love Stones and Crystals! The top picture is me with the golden healer crystals inside the pyramid. Below I’m reflecting my loving light to you with my ‘starry eyes’. This is not a ‘touched-up photo’ it is just me shining my love from the inside - out. If I can do it, so can you. Just try being extra kind and compassionate.

I hope you have really happy days and nights until next issue, and don’t forget I LOVE YOU!
