Adopting the story of King Lear, poet ROBERT BLY and Jungian analyst MARION WOODMAN will examine the pain of coming to oneself so late in life.

"Cordelia
could be
said to represent the
soul as it
asks to be taken seriously." The play also addresses the terrible consequences of the loss of the positive feminine, so relevant to our times.

"I am a very foolish, fond old man." —King Lear

The example of our presenters, as still-questing elders willing to continue giving back the fruits of their lives to the culture, will serve as
inspiration.
