We are welcoming the season where the leaves gloriously show us their rich colours. They are brilliant! They are breath-taking! They surround us with inspiration and we graciously soak it all up. And then soon the show is over and we're left to our own devices to find the beauty and light in the rain and bare branches. We are given a gift, an opportunity to look within.

The trees are such great teachers, and I believe at this time in particular, it is even more important to listen to them speak. Right now planet earth is being downloaded with amazing new vibrations at a very intense rate. The positive and parallel effects on us as cohabitants of Mother Earth is intensified. If we are happy we tend to find more happiness, if we are fearful that emotion also expands - if we love... we love like we've never loved before and if we find ourselves empty, that void is shockingly expansive.

And so we look to the trees to remind us to utilize the power of each season which right now is to boldly step forward and shine brightly to attract attention in a egoless loving kind of way - making a statement of the highest sort. Sound and light and colour come together as ONE as they joyfully accept the sunlight mixing with the chilly nights to paint their leaves bright. They embrace the wind and sing sweet harmony...and eventually, together they empty their branches to make way for a winter of rest so that they grow anew. Come spring, they sprout fresh delicate life with none of the old getting in the way. “Look,” they shout out, “there IS life after apparent death - there is a fresh new start when you are brave enough to make way for it.”

Those new leaves are given lots of room to grow and then do their summer duty: watching over you, protecting you from the hot summer rays...and with that job complete - once again they CELEBRATE with a blast of colour - shouting out GRATITUDE for a job well done. And over and over again it happens...and the miraculous thing about it is - the tree GROWS.

As mentioned earlier, with all the shifting at this time in our lives, we need to find that element of trust again...that profound belief that we are part of a miraculous cycle of giving and receiving and the inner knowingness that it is OK to be healthy, happy and prosperous. Not only is it OK - it is part of our Divine Template.

Like the tree, it IS TIME for us to spread our wings wide and go with the flow of our own self-creation. Easier said than done you say? No doubt!

And so we present to you ONE 75. Page after page of stories and pictures and people and events that have all come together under this cover - to help you do just that!

There is still great opportunity left in this final stage of 2011 and we would lovingly encourage you to trust in the inner intelligence of who you already are, to bravely make the most of it, and do the best you can. G☆
